Inspiring sustainable sleep

Endorsed by the Eden Project, our strategic sustainability partner, the Organic collection celebrates the next chapter of the Origins Story and the relationship between the natural world and people, demonstrating how we can build a more sustainable future using materials that are easily recovered at end of life.

Hypnos' unique collaboration with the Eden Project encompasses both charitable and sustainable initiatives and a technical approach to working with nature to protect the environment, thus satisfying our purpose to inspire people to sleep sustainably for the benefit of all living things.

A better way to farm

Organic is unique because of the very special care taken by farmers and growers to produce pure and high quality fibres using methods that work with nature. As such, organic farmers play a vital role as environmental stewards of land that is free of pesticides and artificial fertilisers, championing wildlife by maintaining hedgerows and wildflowers to naturally reduce pests and using crop rotation and animals to improve soil quality and health.

Better for animals, organic farming standards are extremely high and constantly innovative to encourage more humane farming practices. Animals are genuinely free-range and free from preventative antibiotics, with far lower stocking densities.

The standard

The Global Organic Textile Standard is world-leading in organic textiles certification, independently awarded by The Soil Association Certification. This standard gives the assurance that the Hypnos Origins Organic collection has been made purely from certified organic fibres and materials that meet the highest social and environmental criteria, and that every process has been carefully considered to preserve the integrity of the collections' organic status
